		Doktor :	Asst. Prof. Dr. Mert Öztaş

The patient has been followed with a diagnosis of rheumatoid arthritis for approximately 4 years. She previously received methotrexate and has had no regular treatment for the past year. At presentation, she reported being unable to fully extend her right elbow. She is currently taking leflunomide 20 mg/day. No drug allergies, no smoking or alcohol use, no surgical history.

Examination and investigations: Active synovitis with limited extension was found in the right elbow. Findings are consistent with seropositive rheumatoid arthritis.

Assessment: Active right elbow monoarthritis persists despite conventional synthetic DMARD therapy. Biologic therapy is indicated to control disease activity and prevent joint damage.

Treatment plan:

- Etanercept [50 mg] SC [once weekly] for [3 months]
- Leflunomide 20 mg PO once daily [continued]
- Rheumatology follow-up at [3 months] to assess clinical response
